Passage 5

1. 3;

Even though the government has given many openings and opportunities to the opposition to pin it on the mat, the opposition hasn't really managed to marshal its arguments effectively. One reason for this is that the opposition's argument and goalpost keep shifting and loses its salience.

2. 1;

The government did not cut taxes for any particular section. "...started clobbering the government for cutting some taxes and indulging in cheap populism to bring down the prices of petroleum."

3. 2;

"It was accused of being insensitive and callous to the sufferings of millions of Indians. when it ignores corporates and their bottom lines start falling and layoffs start rising, the government is accused of ignoring the economy."

4. 4; The passages doesn't say that all the steps taken by the government are correct but when the steps of the government are wrong, the opposition opposes and when the government takes measures to rectify its mistakes, the opposition opposes that too. This means that the opposition is here to only oppose the ruling government regardless of it being beneficial or detrimental for the country and its citizens.

5. 2; "Clearly, as far as its detractors are concerned, the current dispensation is damned if it does, and damned if it doesn't. The problem with this zero-sum approach is that very often even if the criticism of government policy and action is valid, the perception is that it is just opposition for the sake of opposition and there is neither any sense nor any sensibility in the criticism."

6. 3;

Cogent means Persuasive

7. 2; Salience means Prominence. Opposite is insignificance.

3. 4;

It is said in the passage that India will make a spur in the international market, but the reason behind it is not stated.

4. 4;

"The researchers attribute India's rapid growth prospects to the fact that it is particularly well positioned to continue diversifying into new areas, given the capabilities accumulated to date," said a press release accompanying the report. "India has made inroads in diversifying its export base to include more complex sectors, such as chemicals, vehicles, and certain electronics."

5. 5;

But considering the World Bank last year estimated India's economy was more than 88 times larger than Uganda's, the former's rate of expansion will make bigger waves in the international market as India plugs along toward becoming one of the world's single largest economies.
